the 1980s, the number of people in the world who are undernourished has increased from 250 million to 600 million (FAO 1985). The number of people who are malnourished has increased from 100 million to 250 million (FAO 1985).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the nutritional status of the world's population. The World Bank, the United Nations, the World Health Organization, and the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations have all been instrumental in the development of the World Food Summit in 1984. The summit was held in Rome, Italy, and was attended by 118 countries. The summit was the first of its kind, and it was the first time that all of the world's heads of state had met to discuss the issue of food security.

The summit was a landmark event in the history of the world's food security efforts. It was the first time that all of the world's heads of state had met to discuss the issue of food security.
